

Contract for Pricing & Services

Congratulations for choosing to invest in your health and enhance your quality of life! While there are no quick fixes to feeling better, I believe that making the commitment to address your diet over the next few months is an important first step. Whether you need more or less help, my flexible package pricing will allow you to get started on your path to wellness. In the first few meetings, we will work together to create a dietary plan that will allow you to meet your goals. For the overwhelming majority of clients, a positive change in diet can dramatically impact how they feel.

There are often barriers to changing your diet. Many clients struggle with understanding package labels, becoming bored with bland foods, utilizing food as a way to cope with stress, and losing focus of the long term goals. I will provide accountability and guidance through this process to help you overcome these challenges.
